Conversation Tips for Youth Talking with a Safe Adult

- “I want to talk to you about something but I don’t want you to get mad.”
- “I think I might have a problem with vaping/drugs/alcohol.” If you aren’t ready to talk about it with the safe adult yet, you can tell them that you need to talk to someone like a therapist or a doctor, but you’re just not ready to talk to them about it yet.
- “I learned that family biology can mean a person is more at risk to become addicted to drugs or alcohol. Is that something that exists in our family?”
- Try to find a time to talk when your safe adult can give you their attention, or wait for a news story or commercial that addresses the topic to come on and start a conversation based on that story.

POPULATION RESOURCES

The National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI) has a website with useful resources for people who identify as:

Asian American or Pacific Islander
Black or African American
Hispanic or Latinx

Conversation Tips for a Safe Adult Talking with Youth

- “Have you been in situations where there were opportunities for drug or alcohol use? Did you feel pressured?”
- “I have been noticing something [on the news/radio/social media/neighborhood/family/friends, etc.] that I want to talk with you about.”
- “Sometimes family biology can mean a person is more at risk to become addicted to drugs or alcohol, and I wanted to talk to you about our family history and what you should keep in mind.”
- “There are times where people use drugs or alcohol so they don’t have to deal with bad feelings. How have hard parts of your life affected you?”

FAMILY SUPPORT

family-focused services designed to guide, educate, and support family members who are dealing with a loved one’s addiction through peer and family support

What are the “levels of care?”

Detoxification: “Detox” refers to the treatment of moderate withdrawal symptoms and non-acute physical or psychiatric complications.

Inpatient: Inpatient takes place in an OASAS-certified treatment setting with 24-hour medical coverage and oversight provided to individuals with significant acute medical, psychiatric and substance use disorders with significant associated risks.

Outpatient: While remaining at home, working and functioning in the community, a consumer may attend individual, group or family focused treatment and work toward personal goals. This may include less intensive involvement or may require multiple visits per week.

Residential: Individuals are provided a safe living environment with a high degree of behavioral accountability. Services include medical and clinical oversight of chronic but stable medical and psychiatric symptoms and conditions in a community program including an outpatient Substance Use Disorder treatment program.
